Just a small note regarding the static and dynamic pages:

In the first assignment I designed the frontpage (index.html), a movie database page (movies.html) and the page for a single movie (movie.html).

You can navigate to index and movies by using the nav bar, but in order to see the single movie, you have to click on the link "twin peaks" on the bottom of the movies.html page, since that is the only movie I have implemented the design for.
